The Lusitano Collection International Exhibition allows buyers to preview, test-ride, and bid on top quality Lusitano horses from Brazil.

The Lusitano Collection™ 2010 International Exhibition

— Contributed

Taking place in February, 2010 at the Jim Brandon Equestrian Center in Wellington, Florida, the Lusitano Collection™ International Exhibition will offer for sale over two dozen specially selected Lusitano horses from some of the top Lusitano breeding farms in Brazil.

Interested buyers will be able to preview the horses available, test ride them, and view their veterinarian records, including the most recent x-rays and tests that have been completed. At the end of the testing period, guests will be treated to lavish cocktail parties and networking events culminating with a gala dinner and auction.

Native to the Iberian Peninsula, the Lusitano breed has been characterized as being noble and easy to ride. Possessing a higher than average intelligence and willingness to work, the Lusitano is well known for its exceptional performance in all equestrian disciplines, especially in dressage, driving, and pleasure equitation.

2010 will celebrate the third year that the exhibition has taken place on U.S. soil. Well attended by Canadians, the event allows clients the chance to purchase top quality horses without importing them from Portugal or Brazil. Approximately 15 percent of the horses sold at the event are exported to Canada.
